Elizabeth is a member of Gallagher's Litigation practice, assisting clients in commercial and employment litigation. With strong writing and legal research skills, she helps clients navigate a broad array of disputes and other matters.

Elizabeth graduated magna cum laude in 2020 from Seton Hall University School of Law. During law school, she served as a Comments Editor for the Seton Hall Law Review and as student counsel for the Seton Hall Law Center for Social Justice, Family Law Clinic.

In 2019, she served as a judicial intern to the Honorable Mary Gibbons Whipple of the Superior Court of New Jersey, Appellate Division, and in 2020, she clerked for the Honorable Lee A. Solomon, Associate Justice on the Supreme Court of New Jersey.

Beyond Gallagher

When she is not busy assisting clients, Elizabeth can be found reading or enjoying yoga and knitting.
